The Caribbean – The Wedding Paradise Next Door

From secluded coves to crescent beaches and tropical gardens, it is the tropical romantic choice.

BY D. O. CHRISTIAN RIEGER IV

He took his place and waited. One minute, then two. His heart jumped wildly in his chest, like island natives lost in a rapturous and frenzied dance. He closed his eyes and tried to breathe.

He slowly inhaled the sun-warmed, salt air. He listened to the rhythmic pulse of the sea and the gentle melodies of the island, feeling embraced by the presence of close family and friends. All things before had brought him to this moment. The finding, the courting, the falling, the asking, the planning. Fate? Destiny? He trusted the journey. He would have his lover and he would exist only for her.

He opened his eyes. In the distance he saw the woman in his dreams, the one he had seen night after night when he closed his eyes. She slowly came to him. The music of the island surrounded her and whispering island breath danced in her hair. He took her hand and felt serenity wash over him. The words were said, the two were blessed, and they became one.

Her scent — exotic flavors and wild blossoms — filled his senses as they kissed. As loved ones approached with their congratulations, they disentangled. . . .

So states the opening web page of Bliss Villa in Anguilla. And it pretty much says it all of the 31 countries that dot the Caribbean Sea. Couples can be married in one of the 19 English-speaking, five French-speaking, four Dutch-speaking and three Spanish-speaking island destinations. Each with its own cultural mark. Each with that unique charm of the Caribbean.

Just a short plane ride from the states, couples can find their ideal place to tie the knot. Outdoor chapels, gazebos, open-air on the beach, on a lawn or cliff-top overlooking surf and sand below. Whatever the choice, the Caribbean has the spot on an island to fit the needs of a couple's ideal dream wedding and their budget, from small and intimate private villas and inns to mega, all-inclusive resorts. From an intimate wedding for two, to one for hundreds of guests. From simplicity itself, to being treated like royalty, it is all here, in the wedding paradise next door.

Most all wedding packages include the basics such as licenses, fees, a presiding official, champagne and flowers. These will generally not be mentioned below.

Anguilla Bliss Villa

Perched directly on the sea coast, Bliss Villa has spectacular views of St. Martin, St. Barts, Saba and the infinite horizon within the manicured ¾ acre surroundings of a new, luxury villa.

Bliss's 4000 square feet of living space includes air-conditioned, ocean-front, king-size and queen-size bedroom suites with en-suite private bathrooms, a fully equipped gourmet kitchen and dining room and spacious living room with spectacular ocean views. It is the next best thing to living in the water. There is over 3000 square feet of extensive veranda with a fresh water infinity edge pool on the sea side of the house. Sit on the terrace while listening to the surf crash on the cliff 75 feet below. The following can also be arranged: on-site chef, airport pick up, car rental, masseuse, personal trainer, driver. Wedding costs about $10,000 for a week with the villa and friends.

CuisinArt Resort & Spa

CuisinArt Resort & Spa offers idyllic settings for wedding nuptials which include its wedding gazebo overlooking the beach. The backdrop for which is two miles of white sand, crescent-shaped beach of Rendezvous Bay. On the beach: where couples can walk down an aisle of powder-soft white sand — barefoot. The background music could be as simple as the hush tones of the waves caressing the shore. Its pergola is located in the center of the resort.

The Bahamas

One thing that separates The Bahamas from other Caribbean destinations is that it gives couples the opportunity to marry on one island, honeymoon on another, and yet another, and so forth. Island-hopping makes a perfect honeymoon experience.

Director of Romance

In the fall of 2006, The Bahamas Ministry of Tourism appointed Freda Madrisotti Director of Romance for The Bahamas. Her position, the first of its kind in the Caribbean, provides a link between hotels, resorts, facilities, vendors and suppliers to ensure any romantic occasion in the islands-nation proceeds as seamlessly and stress-free as possible.

The convenience of getting married in The Bahamas explains why each year, a growing number of couples choose this island getaway as the place to say "I do." The destination is both accessible and affordable, with a variety of romantic venues available for a unique wedding that a couple will cherish forever — from saying vows beneath a 14th-century French Cloister on Paradise Island, to exchanging wedding bands on a pristine white or pink sand beach in the Out Islands, or even tying the knot within the majestic underwater world of Grand Bahama Island. The choice is a hop, skip and a jump away from the U.S.

The Wedding Day Delight package includes a bottle of fine champagne, and chocolate-covered strawberries upon arrival, as well as a suite on a choice of seaside location, a private candlelight dinner on the island of TT where they are shuttled to by a private craft, and where, at their request, the couple can be left alone until a designated time to be picked up, a private bath butler. They also get a candlelight couples massage at Ocean Spa.

The couple continues the celebration as they watch the sunrise next morning with breakfast in bed and later that evening re-energize with a sunset kayak tour. Package prices start at $11,595 for the ultra-posh pool suites with a private plunge pool overlooking the beaches and coves of the Atlantic Ocean.

They offer five private beaches, secret coves, a meditation or labyrinth garden, and a new, multi-tiered, infinity-edged swimming pool with private-sun decks overlooking Mangrove Bay as ceremony locations.

AFFORDABLE LUXURY ONBOARD AIR JAMAICA

As other airlines cut prices and increase the number and cost of in-flight "add-ons," Air Jamaica continues to provide the kind of flight experience its consumers deserve, and then some. The World's Best Airline to the Caribbean is not just a tag line, it's a corporate philosophy.

All Air Jamaica flights, whether purchased through the Internet, telephone or travel agent, special fare or everyday rate offers the same high quality of service.

"We pride ourselves on making sure our customers receive outstanding service and comfort aboard our flights," says George deMercado, Vice President, Sales for Air Jamaica.

"From the moment consumers board, they feel the Caribbean hospitality we are famous for and that includes complimentary beverages, hot meals, snacks, award-winning in-flight entertainment, clean and comfortable seats and of course, free champagne. We also continue to offer two checked bags up to 50 pounds each at no cost (and three checked bags in Executive Business Class.) We are always looking for ways to enhance our services, not cut them at the expense of our customers."

To emphasize Air Jamaica's commitment to service, the airline recently implemented special schedules to enable cricket fans to attend the World Cup matches and fly home the same day. Air Jamaica also continues to expand its routes providing more non-stops to destinations throughout the Eastern Caribbean including daily non-stops from JFK to Barbados and flights from it's hub in Montego Bay to destinations including Curacao, Bonaire and Grenada.

In addition, Air Jamaica recently revamped its first class service into Executive Business Class to provide first class service at more affordable rates. Air Jamaica offers the only non-stop champagne flights to the Caribbean making travel for both Americans and Caribbean nationals easy and efficient from its gateways in the United States.

"We want our customers to have an outstanding experience every time, to become repeat customers and to tell their friends," says deMercado.

"We believe that's the best way to build and sustain our brand." Air Jamaica also offers a variety of special programs including a "bride and groom upgrade program" and a special free stopover program allowing consumers to stay overnight in Jamaica before continuing on to other Air Jamaica destinations.

ARABELLA LAUNCHES NEW ITINERARIES TO TURKS & CAICOS, NEVIS & ST. KITTS

Arabella, a 160-foot, 40 passenger sailing yacht, is expanding her Caribbean routes beginning in April 2007 when she adds St. Kitts, Nevis and Turks & Caicos to her tropical itineraries.

Already popular for her Virgin Island excursions, which lead guests to secluded ports of call that larger passenger cruises cannot maneuver, Arabella's latest six- and seven-day adventures will sail guests through the Lesser Antilles from St. Martin, Anquilla and St. Barths continuing on to two new stops, Nevis and St. Kitts. Additionally, she will launch excursions out of Turks & Caicos with stops in Grand Turk, Salt Cay, South Caicos, Middle Caicos, Caicos Cays and Providenciales. Rates are from $1,295 to $2,195 based on cabin type.

With 20 elegantly appointed staterooms, each featuring private bath and satellite telephones and TV, Arabella offers guests upscale, personalized services and amenities in a relaxed and fun setting. On board "toys" include a fleet of two-man sea kayaks, snorkeling gear for all passengers, and an on-deck hot water spa. On all voyages daytime meals and hors d'oeuvres are served on board and passengers head to shore in the evening for an array of unique dining options and nighttime adventures. Most meals are included in the rate.

A sampling of the new St. Kitts / Nevis itinerary includes: arrive in St. Maartin for French dining in the port of Margot; an early morning sail to Anquilla for snorkeling and sun bathing; sail to St. Barths with choice of shore excursions or snorkeling, diving and seaside activities; visit to St. Eustatius known for its duty free shopping and exceptional diving; and sail to Nevis, one of the last unspoiled spots in the Caribbean.

A sampling of the new Turks & Caicos excursion includes: sail to Salt Cay for diving and snorkeling; sail to Middle Caicos, where guests can explore ancient Lucayan Indian sites; sail to Caicos Cays; and a day in port at Providenciales where horseback riding adventures, jet ski rentals or diving classes can be arranged.

ST. KITTS CRUISE ARRIVALS TO INCREASE IN 2008

Continuing to demonstrate its readiness to welcome international visitors to its shores, the St. Kitts Tourism Authority has announced that its cruise arrivals will increase by over 70 percent in 2008. This increase is largely due to the addition of the Carnival Destiny to the island's cruise ship roster, which will be the first cruise ship to call at St. Kitts on a weekly year-round basis. The Carnival Destiny will bring 130,000 passengers next year to St. Kitts, beginning with its first call on January 10, 2008. The ship will spend a full day in port, allowing passengers the maximum amount of time to explore St. Kitts'.

"We are approaching the 400,000 annual passenger milestone in the growth of St. Kitts' cruise tourism industry," stated Ricky Skerritt, Minister of State in the Ministry of Tourism, Sports and Culture. In response to the anticipated growth in tourism from cruise passenger arrivals as well as overall arrivals, St. Kitts has continued to provide duty and tax exemptions on vehicle imports to local taxi operators to accommodate the increased demand for transportation and island tours from visitors. All taxi operators are required to complete extensive hospitality training prior to licensing in order to ensure the consistent delivery of a top quality taxi experience. "The waiting list for new taxi licenses is still quite long," Skerritt added, "but we will continue to expand and improve the quality of our taxi fleet on a need-to basis."

ÉLAN RESORT & SPA OFFICIALLY OPENS IN CANCUN

The official inauguration of the new luxurious Élan Resort & Spa in Cancun was held recently. More than 500 government officials, guests and VIPs were welcomed in to the elegant enclave designed in traditional Mexican colonial style by architect owner Tomás Auñón. Lying on its own peninsula overlooking the Nichupté Lagoon and set amid tropical gardens and tiled fountains, the stylish all-inclusive resort is reminiscent of a 17th century Mexican village.

Among the noted guests were: Félix González, the governor of the state of Quintana Roo; Francisco Alor Quezada, the mayor of Cancun; Gabriela Rodríguez Gálvez, Mexico's secretary of tourism; and Jesús Almaguer Salazar, the president of the Cancun Hotel Association.

The luxury resort has 95 rooms and 51 one-, two- and three-bedroom villa suites, six restaurants, three bars, two private beach areas, two swimming pools, two tennis courts, a fitness center, steam rooms, saunas, a Temazcal (an authentic Mayan sauna), and a Cyber Cafe. The Elements Spa showcases its signature Mayan and Ayurvedic treatments. Unlimited classes in yoga, Pilates and Tai Chi are offered and sailboats, canoes, windsurfers and water bikes are provided for use in the lagoon. Entertainment in the evenings reflects the tasteful atmosphere of Élan. A Mexican anthropologist might lecture on Mayan customs and each week the Plaza Santa Cecilia will come alive with a ballet folklorico and mariachi music.

"Our aim is to provide an authentic Mexican experience here at Élan," explained owner Tomás Auñón. "Our tranquil refuge away from the bustle of high-rise Cancun will appeal to sophisticated travelers. And we already have 70% occupancy for Easter week, so word is getting out," he added.

When guests stay at the all-inclusive Élan, all expenses are covered including all meals and alcoholic and non-alcoholic beverages, roundtrip airport transfers, nightly entertainment, use of recreational facilities, water sports equipment, the fitness center and the sauna and steam rooms, tennis courts and equipment, exercise classes and a half-hour "Élan massage," and all hotel taxes and service charges.

From April 8 to December 20, rates for rooms and villas are $250 to $1,000 per night. Children 14 and over are welcomed as adults in appropriate suites when sharing with adults.

REGENT HOTELS & RESORTS MAKES CARIBBEAN DEBUT

On April 2, 2007, Regent Hotels & Resorts made its Caribbean debut with The Regent Palms Turks and Caicos, a 72-suite luxury resort enclave on Grace Bay Beach.

In assuming management of The Palms in September 2006, Regent Hotels & Resorts made a commitment to raise the resort's level of luxury. Its first area of focus was to guarantee the highest service by increasing the staff by 20 percent, offering a higher staff-to-guest ratio. Every aspect of the re-sort's service, products and activities has been enhanced from new concierge services and spa renovations to higher quality bed linens and new culinary creations.

"The marriage of The Palms, a previously independent resort, and Regent is 'a perfect fit,'" said Mark Conroy, President of Regent. "Virtually everything about this resort - from its unparalleled location and dramatic architecture to its extraordinary spa - is the embodiment of Regent. It has all the qualities we look for in a luxury property."

"What we've done is taken a great resort and found ways to make it even better," said General Manager Diderik Van Regemorter, who is leading the reflagging project. "Above all, Regent is known for a sincere and unwavering dedication to service and a commitment to delivering an experience and product of the very highest quality."
